BRITAIN TRYING TO MEND FENCES WITH NEW BLOC

But Leaves Itself An Out In Case Of Need

USSR STRADDLING

In a somewhat tardy effort to repair some of the fences so badly smashed by Hitler's recent drives, British diplomacy was trying this week to bring Poland and Rumania into a bloc against Germany.

This took the form of a Brit ish pledge to come to the aid of Poland in case the Poles resisted any attack on their "independence." A similar pledge. supplemented by an offer of a loan of hard cash, was being offered to Rumania, to prevent the sweeping German-Rumanian trade pact of two weeks ago from becoming operative. France has already signed a pact of its own with Rumania for the same purpose and also announced that it would share Britain's pledges of aid.

British "Promises"

The press hummed with reports of a "sharp departure" in British foreign policy, conveniently forgetting the solemn "pledges" Britain made to Austria and Czecho-Slovakia and substance when the showdown came. That this promise is worded more explicitly will not make it any harder to break.

The day after Chamberlain made his promise in Commons. the London Times - the real mouthpiece of the British pol icy makers-explained that the Pope and Roosevelt pledge did not cover "every inch of the present frontiers of Poland," meaning that Britain would not fight for Danzig or the Polish Corridor

It was indignantly denied the next day that this represented any official British view-but the same kind of denials were made last Fall when the Times editorially advocated the cession of the Sudentenland to Hitler, accurately forecasting the actual policy that was later carried out by Chamberlain. On Monday Chamberlain "re-affirmed" his pledge to Poland and then plunged into talks with Jozef Beck, the wily Polish foreign minister, to see whether Poland would take the

Both Poland and Rumania, gasping under powerful Ger-man pressure against their midriffs, were not wholly prepared to accept the proffered deal so long as they could not be sure that they too would not thrown to the Hitlerite wolves if it suited the convenience of perfidious Albion at some future date.

That event seems un-saying that it is much more likely that Hitler's advance will continue and that Stalin will find some basis of agree-ment with him. At the same time, taking no more chances than he has to, Stalin holds out the possibility of his participation in the British bloc, either as a real thing, or as a bar-gaining point with the Fuehrer. Stalin himself probably does not know yet which it will be.

In the Midst of Crisis

The increasingly sharpened character of po-litical events appear to have paralyzed com-pletely the bureaucrats of the International Federation of Trade Unions.

A regular meeting of the Executive of the I.F.T.U. was due in March. Hitler was taking Czechoslovakia and Memel, Franco was en-tering Madrid and Valencia. With such heat on, the Citrines and Schevenels decided . . . to postpone their meeting!

It was not by accident that the only international working class organization meeting in the midst of the crisis last September and issuing its call to action was the Fourth International. While the social reformists and Stalinists become petrified by the impact of the crisis, the revolutionists of the Fourth International loom as the only hope of action for the world's workers.

How They Worked To "Save Spain"

A pamphlet written by Jean Rous, French Fourth Internationalist who spent many months in Spain between July 1936 and the conclusion of the civil war, has just been published in France under the title "Spain 1936—Spain 1939: The Revolution Assassinated." It covers the whole period with an amazing mass of detail.

The Rous pamphlet should be of particular value in making clear the criminally mistaken line of the P.O.U.M. The impotence of its centrist policies is clarified throughout by the mere recital of events and the P.O.U.M.'s reaction to them. The victimization of this party by the Stalinists and their People's Front al-lies should not, despite our sympathy and solidarity with the victims, close anyone's eyes to its false politics.

Rous cites a letter of May 25, 1937 written by

"Finally," says Prieto in one of the pas sages, "the most important part of our mopping-up process in the rear has been concluded. At Barcelona, as well as in the rest of the province, the wheels of the F.A.I. and the province, the wheels of the F.A.I. and the continuous class or ganizations—

Labour Party Branches Flock to "Anti-Register" Opposition

Thirty-nine branches of the British Labour Party have officially flocked to the growing rank and file opposition against the National Register conscription scheme, the development of which has been recorded regularly in this column.

The case of Egbert Q. Rubberbone is not unusual. Almost everyday his little story appears somewhere in some newspaper-generally on page thrty-six. It goes something like

"After thirty years of faithful, devoted service to the Snarl & Sweat Department Store, Mr. Egbert Q. Rubberbone, known to hundreds of local citizens as the assistant manager of the piano department, was awarded a gold watch at a testimonial dinner in his honor last night. The watch was presented by Mr. Snarl who said, 'We need more men like Rubberbone

For thirty years of faithful, devoted service. . For thirty long, dreary years of leaping out of bed like a hunted criminal every morning at seven a.m.-bolting down a cruller and a cup of muddy coffee—rushing down into a dark, dirty subway where he was jammed and shoved into a crowded stinking subway carout and up and into the office to shove his time card into the clock ten minutes early and then to put in eight or more solid hours on his feet and no time or place to rest. Home at night—to a stuffy flat in the suburbs where he falls asleep over the dinner table. Thirty years of this-for a watch. A watch worth twenty-five bucks in any hock-shop.

And Egbert is satisfied. If you ask him why he never becomes fed up with the life of a plough horse he is surprised. He says. "It's people like you who make all the trouble in this world. You always want to upset every-

Egbert just doesn't stop to think why any one should want to upset things. He never stops to ask questions and he never has any doubts about things. He accepts his boss's answers to everything. He even feels sorry for the boss. He says the boss couldn't get along without him and he couldn't get along without the boss. And Egbert is right again. Only

Egbert just doesn't know how right he is. . . . For thirty years he kept his place and never spoke out of turn. Whenever he felt ill he forced himself to the store and didn't mention it to a soul. His stomach suffered as a result of eating half rotten food in clatter-bang one arm lunch rooms.

When debts mounted and his wife couldn't pay the grocer or the electric bills, Egbert hesitated. After weeks of mental torture he crawled to the boss's office. Hat in hand and heart in mouth, he spoke softly and fearfully.

Thus the social democrats were directly responsible for the Soviet Union's isolation and the subsequent degeneration of the Soviet regime as represented by Stalin.

Shachtman enraged his social democratic listeners with Roughing It a pointed and detailed analysis In The Carribean of the close similarity between their program and the program of the Communist Party.

"The degeneration of the Communist Party has reached a final stage of corruption which places it side by side with the Social Democratic Party in every country of the globe where they yet exist," the United States are gathering said Shachtman. Referring to the hypocrisy of Social Democratic devotion to "legality," and "abhorrence of violence," Shachtman described how in Spain the Socialist, Caballero, was overturned by the Socialist, Juan Negrin, who was himself ousted by violence by the Socialist, Julian Besteiro-all three belonging to the same party!—while the Social-ist, Blum, strangled the "leg-al" Popular Front government all along with his arms blockade while Premier of France.

On Labor Unity

President Roosevelt was instrumental in initiating the negotiations for unity between the A.F.L. and C.I.O. For Roosevelt unity means avoiding the necessity of taking sides; it means a greater chance of getting a united labor vote for his party; it means fewer jurisdictional squabbles and consequently a more effective prosecution of any war that he may drag us into.

To these reasons the intelligent worker is utterly indifferent. He has more important reasons of his own for desiring and demanding unity-unity based on the acceptance of industrial unionism in the mass production

The achievement of unity in the ranks of labor would, at the present time, constitute a tremendous stride forward. It would increase the defensive power of the working class, something that is absolutely necessary now when reactionary forces are mobilizing to take back every concession labor has gained in the last several years; it would, perhaps, stimulate an organizing campaign such as the separation of the C.I.O. from the A.F.L. was responsible for.

To some it may seem curious that both the breach and the healing of the breach in the ranks of organized labor can bring about similar results. That is nevertheless the case. The organization of the workers in the mass production industries on an industrial basis was so vital that the separation of the C.I.O. from the A.F.L. to achieve that objective was more than justified That split set the workers into motion with progressive results that are well known to everybody.

And now that industrial unionism has succeeded in organizing some of the mass production industries, the unification of the forces of labor-always on condition that industrial unionism in the mass production industries is to be taken for granted-would arouse great cuthusiasm among the workers and might well lead to another great influx of workers into the ranks of organ-

The only ones who will really benefit henceforward from disunity are the bosses, from now on the two organizations will attempt to organize the same workers and the bitter disputes and rivalries that will inevitably result can be beneficial only to the employers.

No one doubts the keen desire of the rank and file of both the A.F.L. and C.I.O. for unity. The main obstacle to achieving that goal is the fear of the A.F.L. reactionaries that unity with the C.I.O. might threaten their position of leadership. Nor are the ambitions, truculence and grand-stand playing of John L. Lewis favorable factors for achieving unity.

Progressive workers of both organizations must give the leaders to understand that once industrial unionism in the mass production industries is accepted, all other questions can and should be compromised and no considerations of personal prestige and ambition should interfere with accomplishing that unity which will mean so much to the working class.

Battleships Before Relief

The "economy-minded" Congressmen slashed $50,-000,000 from W.P.A. funds. These same Congressmen didn't make a squawk about the two battleships of 45,-000 tons each that the President ordered built at an expense of approximately $200,000,000. Nor did the President suggest that perhaps the money spent for the battleships could very well go for relief. There may be a slight disagreement between Roosevelt and some Congressmen as to how much should be ent from W.P.A. but there is no disagreement on the proposition that battleships come before relief.

Congress on January 8 1937 declared an arms embargo which completely cut off Loy war materials, while the fas cists were in no way affected, since they received all their supplies from Italy and Ger many, including much material imported from America osten-sibly for Hitler and Mussolini but actually for Franco.

In Wilson's Foot-Steps

On May 1, 1937, when the general neutrality law was adopted by Congress, legal experts stated that it did not spe fically apply to civil wars and that, since it superceded all previous legislation relating to embargoes, Loyalist Spain was eligible to purchase arms here. Whereupon, on the same day, Roosevelt issued a proclamation specifically applying an emgargo against Spain.

Roosevelt's speedy recogniion of Franco's government is certainly not the pattern which would have been followed had the workers and peasants won in Spain. Like his predecessor "New Freedom" Wilson, who refused to recognize the Soviet government, Roosevelt would have refused to establish relations with a successful anti fascist government in Spain This is sufficiently evidenced by his cutting the Loyalists off from arms throughout the civil

By Jamse Burnham Government

During the past two months both Houses of Congress have passed, and Roosevelt has signed, a regular Naval appropriations bill totalling over $600,000,000. There has also been passed and signed a $350,000,000 bill for the increase of the Army air force. At the present time, joint committees of the two Houses are ironing out certain minor conflicts in two other bills, both of which are assured of passage within the next week or two: the regular Army appropriation, reaching more than $500,000. 000; and a bill making available approximately $50,000,000 for the expansion and construction of naval bases

Two further bills are also being prepared in committees: one allotting about $50,000,000 in "educational orders" for war supplies; another for from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 to buy up and store essential military supplies which must be brought in from abroad.

These that I have listed add up to $1,600,000.000.

The Good Provider

But this is by no means the total to be spent on armaments during the next year. A number of military and naval items-for example, construction of military posts and encampments, airplane landing fields, Coast Guard, military roads, etc. are carried in the budget under a variety of nonmilitary headings: Treasury Department, C.C.C W.P.A., and others. Such expenditures would add another several hundred millions.

Then there must be taken into account the sums appropriated during previous sessions of Congress which are now being used for the construction of hundreds of warships and airplanes. The present session will undoubtedly make a number of "deficiency appropriations" before it adjourns.

The grand total for armaments, directly for armaments, to be spent during the next fiscal year will be far more than $2,000,000,000. Indeed, since is certain that a later session of Congress will add vasily to this sum before the next fiscal year is over, it is hard to place any limit on what will be spent. Three, four bilions, even more, are entirely probable.

They are generous fellows, these Congressmen and this President. No one can charge that when they really take something seriously they stint on pennies. The instruments of death must be of the best quality. No battleship but the fastest and strongest will do; no machine gun but the most rapidly death-dealing; no gas but the most hor-

And what a happy family they are when they get together to vote armaments! Nearly everyone of the armament bills has carried unanimously; Democrats and Republicans, New Dealers and Old Dealers, Fresident and Congress, Marcantonio and Ham Fish and-Carter Glass, all joining hands. Nor has their innecent pleasure been marred by any jarring notes from "business." Every section of business, every one of its newspapers and magazines, have remained discreetly stient or loudly praising while these billions have been voted.

The Picture's Other Side

During these same last two months, 88,000 men have been dropped from the W.P.A. rolls. That means about 400,000 persons who have been left with no means to get adequate food or warmth or housing or medical care.

The order has gone out to drop several hundred thousand more this week, twice as many next month, about the same number in June.

Congress is debating whether to advance $100. 000,000 or $150,000,000 more to W.P.A. The $50, 000,000 difference can be translated into terms of food or hunger for a million or so persons. In the House of Representatives, where the lower figure carried, no one even dreamed of suggesting anything higher than $150,000,000. But $150,000,000 means dropping an average of at least 150,000 a month from the rolls. Many members of Congress have explained that they consider it an outrage to vote a single additional dollar to W.P.A. In this opinion, "business" finds itself largely in agreement.

Appeasement for Whom and for What?

A naive observer from Mars or a South Sca Island might be a little puzzled if he should study this record of the last two months of Congress.

He might ask himself: Why is it that so many billions can be unanimously voted for one purpose, and then such haggling and bitterness over measly fifty or a hundred million for another? He would discover, to his surprise, that the fifty million which divided the House on the W.P.A. de ficiency bill is just half the price of a single bat-

But he would soon be enlightened. Any Congressmen or any businessman could easily explain this confusion.

Don't you realize, he would be told, that the government debt is so high and the yearly deficits are so large that we are headed straight for bank ruptcy? Don't you understand that business is getting nowhere because it is strangled with so many taxes? Don't you see, then, that the only way in which the country can be saved from destruction is through a rigorous program of economy and more economy? W.P.A. has got to be cut to the bone or we'll go to pieces in no time.

And if our visitor replied: So that's how it is? didn't understand about economy. Now I would suggest that if you need some real savings you could get even further by lopping a billion or two from these armament bills

But, naturally, our Congressman or businessman would not be going to carry this type of conversa tion further. He would turn away, muttering: So, on Mars or the South Seas they don't even know the difference between economy and patriotism! He's an alien, by his own admission, and I'll see that he is deported, as he ought to be, for spreading subversive doctrines.

A Young Anti-Fascist Contributes To the Fund for Political Refugees

The American Fund for Political Prisoners and Refugees recently received a donation of $5.00 for the German refugees from a seven year old conributor. Shortly afterward, the following letter ar rived from this young anti-fascist;

T. S.

My mother said you would like to know how I got the money for the German refugees. First I thought I would get it from other people, but then have found they all had tickets for it so I decided to get some money meself. I did the house hold jobs and used me allowance. I did the dishes set the table and made beds, and that was all. I just gave $2.40 though, and the rest was given by my mother, and my father, and my uncle. Ittook

I gave it because I liked the poor pretty well and I was reading about Hitler in the newspapers at that time. And I still think Hitler is a burn.

Yours sincerely.
