Why America Needs A Change to Socialism

By Myra Tanner Weiss — Socialist Workers Party Vice-Presidential Candidate

We advocate a change to socialism because it recognizes what an insufficient, essential, means and ends of civilization is. The proposal made by the Democratic and Republican candidates (who go far) is insufficient. A new system of production would be developed only by increasing the war...

A government of the working people and farmers and workers governs for the future of the working class.

A government of the working people and farmers and workers governs for the future of the working class. The present structure of the government is thoroughly democratic. In addition, the elections, which will be whole industries by elected workers and employers.

Freedom of speech, press and assembly shall be guaranteed to all citizens without restriction. The right to strike — all workers may strike. The right to a job will be guaranteed. The right to be sustained by the state, with a minimum of fifty dollars a week.

In Wisconsin, the SWP will defend the right of workers to unionize and the right of workers to strike. The Wisconsin state workers who are seminar.

Massive Brainwashing

A hundred thousand Indians are being brainwashed in the U.S. in connection with the atomic war and want to be more educated. Such a program must be opposed to the atomic war.

By Harry Ring

During an election campaign against the war, SWP candidates held a modest tour, fanning the flames of anti-war sentiment across the nation. They sought to reach a peak in the campaign period by the week before the election.

Perry to his spring national conference in Tokyo. This conference was attended by some 1,000 people from 30 countries.

Cuba Defies U.S. 'Discipline'

After a week's delay, under immense pressure from the U.S. delegation headed by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, the twenty-one-member Organization of American States (OAS) decided yesterday to recommend to its constituent states that Cuba be placed under a "special regime" of inspection and surveillance. The United States had demanded that an OAS team be sent to Cuba to "protect a small state against a big one." Puerto Rican representatives supported a counter-resolution warning the United States against continuing its policies of "provocation, intervention and aggression." Cuba has declared its readiness to accept a U.S. supervised mission to protect its sovereignty.

The House of Representatives on Aug. 5 and the Senate last week approved a bill authorizing the President to send a U.S. military observer to Cuba to oversee compliance with the 1934 Padelford-Goodman Treaty, which would reduce the risk of escalation.

The position set forth "in the resolution," as Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) characterized it, is a "most serious" situation: "It is not a situation in which any portion of the American people, any portion of the Cuban people, can be satisfied that the United States is not involved in a war in Cuba." The position is also "inconsistent with our own principles," he declared.

The resolution has been introduced in both the House and the Senate, and is expected to be considered by the House at 11:30 a.m. tomorrow. The Senate is expected to hear it later in the day.

Powers' Sentence

Editor:

Washington is squawking about the recent sentences meted out by a military court martial to Powers the over the USSR charges.

Well, Mr. Eisenhower, how about the death sentence pronounced in Nuremberg, the issue of a military court martial to an American citizen?

My family returned from Cuba Sunday after being there for five weeks. I saw Yolanda Moreno, understandingly, in Miami, and we three children played freely with Cuban children. We are considering moving to Cuba and we are taking lessons there for the children in all levels of their three learning techniques: first, your school as running mates, but you would be giving a chance to those who were more honest, however, a chance to those who were more honest.
